

Terms used in official statistics

Stratum

Definition:

The subpopulation of the population studied is a subset of the population selected in the specified population, which is a new population (stratified random sampling). The purpose of dividing the studied population into strata, that is, stratification, is to isolate in a diverse population the possible homogeneous groups of individuals, e.g. in the opinion poll strata, are defined as occupational groups

High-level terms

- Sample allocation
- Stratifying variables
- Stratified sampling

Low-level terms:

- Stratification

Contact person on methodology:

GUS – Departament Innowacji

e-mail: Sekretariat-IN@stat.gov.pl